Bids on building for new electronics company run higher than estimates

Temperature and rain for Bulloch county

Bids on the construction of the building for the electronics company planning to establish here were opened at noon last Friday in the county courthouse with representatives of construction, heating, air conditioning, electrical, and plumbing companies from all Georgia present.

Mayor Bill Bowen greeted the representatives of the various Hit 'em hard, but hit 'em fair!

"Hit 'em hard, but hit 'em fair!" will be the cry in Georgia high schools during the weeks of September, October, and November on football fields and during the months of December and January in basketball gyms.

"Hit 'em hard, but hit 'em fair!" is the battle cry of the Hi-Y and the Tri-Hi-Y Clubs all over Georgia as they concentrate on their "Clean Sportsmanship Campaign."

These young people know that clean sportsmanship of the members of the football team, the basketball team and other athletic programs is largely a matter in the hands of the coaches.

But clean sportsmanship on behalf of the students who watch the game is a matter of student responsibility and student leadership.

So these young people, members of the YMCA sponsored Hi-Y and Tri-Hi-Y Clubs, are seeking permission from school authorities to sponsor these Clean Sportsmanship Campaigns in all the schools in Georgia where they have clubs.

Their objective—"To make the student body and other spectators aware of the importance of good spectator sportsmanship at athletic events."

Read it and know what you're signing

A lawyer advises you to refuse to sign any paper, document, or other form, unless you are absolutely sure of all the contents of the thing your signature covers.

Word comes to us that relief clients, underprivileged citizens, and others in certain sections of Georgia are being victimized by unscrupulous groups of people who secure property owners' signatures on various pretexts, papers, which turn out to be legal mortgages on their property.

These mortgages are then sold to an innocent third party who then, in time, forecloses and collects on the deal.

Judge Alan Kemper, state welfare director, says that there are several different groups of these "vultures" preying on the unsuspecting and needy people in several sections of the state.

The pitch is usually the same. The property owners, whose records have been checked in the courthouse, are approached by a fast talking operator who points out certain repairs need to be done. They offer to do the work at a "special rate." He represents himself as a friend of the county

The platform of these young people, members of these two organizations, includes a plank "We stand for... clean sportsmanship... clean speech, clean scholarship... clean living."

Carefully planned, the campaign begins with school opening with a "Welcome New Students," blending into a "Better School Spirit" campaign which is the opening move for the emphasis on good sportsmanship and courtesy in the grandstands.

This carries on over with emphasis on courtesy on the school campus, in the classrooms and in every day associations.

To implement the campaign there will be Cheer Leaders Clinic at the Teachers College here on August 13-15 for high school cheerleaders in this section of the state, and one at Georgia Tech in Atlanta on September 18 for the cheerleaders in the northwest section of Georgia.

Hi-Y members on football and basketball teams will commit themselves to clean sportsmanship in all their school associations.

We commend these young boys and girls on such a campaign. As long as they dream up such campaigns we need not worry about our youth of today.

welfare director, or as having been sent by the county welfare department. He makes the deal more attractive by assuring the property owner that his welfare check will be increased to take care of the improvements. He then has the owner sign a paper which, in reality is a legal mortgage against the property. He, however, tells the owner that he is only signing a paper to say that he wants the work done and that he is the actual owner of the property.

Unless the property owner is careful and reads the paper and sees through the deal, he lets himself and his family in for tragedy.

And the sad part is that the property owner not only stands to lose his home but also loses his relief check—because if he is in the money-borrowing or home-modernization class, he has no need for relief.

So read all papers and documents and forms anyone shoves under your hand for your signature. Otherwise it'll mean tragedy for you and your family—whether you are on relief or not.

It's a good resolution to adopt

The members of the Bulloch County Farm Bureau and the Georgia Farm Bureau Federation are making it plain that they are not an organization to promote political action or to use their organization as a political force.

In a resolution adopted by the board of directors of the Georgia farm organization in a regular session in Macon recently they drew up and adopted the following resolution:

"We the board of directors of the Georgia Farm Bureau Federation recognize the fact that the Georgia Farm Bureau was, and is now organized for the purpose of promoting the general welfare of the farmers of the state.

"That it was and is not now organized for political purposes, or to promote political action. We therefore, as an organization, do not take a political stand and do not promote a political action unless our program is attacked.

"It is the considered opinion of the board that those elected to the several state offices in the current political campaign still work with us in promoting the best interests of the farmers of the state.

"With this understanding, we therefore resolve that the Georgia Farm Bureau Federation will in no way take part in promoting the candidacy of any individual for any public office during the present Democratic primary."

We commend the resolution. As a farm organization the Farm Bureau could do itself no good to get involved in politics and so the resolution is a good one.

Children are so honest, clever, so humorous

By VIRGINIA RUSSELL

Children are so honest, so clever, and so humorous that, in a way, it is a pity they must grow to be men and women.

A young mother was telling about her daughter, who was two and one-half years old at the time. The two were on their way to Cleveland, Ohio. A trip to Atlanta on the Nancy Hanks was wearing enough on the mother. But it was necessary to tussle with the young one until early evening and the Cleveland train. Once on the train she requested that her bed be made at once. Apparently the porter did not want to start his work so soon or for some reason he was very disgruntled. In a most unpleasant manner he barged things about as he made the bed. The young two and one-half-year-old body was not upset by the porter's ill humor. She asked questions and when she got no answers she changed the subject. But she got no response. Finally, the porter's job was finished. He got on his knees to get the suit cases from under the seat. Then came the exclamation, "Oh, look mummy, at the man! He made his bed and now he's saying his prayers." That mother and her two children were left with a wide grin. He was the willing servant to the child from then on, even to carrying her in his arms from the train next day. Doubtless, too, he had a deeper understanding of why the mother needed the bed so early!

A young pre-school boy was invited in a neighbor's house to see a ball game on television. He was delighted and sat very quietly, watching the game with great interest. The neighbor had to leave the room and when he came back he asked, "Jimmy, what's the score?" Jimmy didn't want to be caught short nor did he care for his neighbor to know he didn't know what the "score" meant. He replied with real assurance, "It must be 100 by now. A man with 40 on his back ran awhile ago."

A little three-year-old niece was being greeted by several young uncles. Each was vying for her love and attention. One caught her by the hand and started off in a direction away from the crowd of kin folks. "The uncle said, 'Jane, what's my name?'" She looked up at him with great pity in her eyes and said, "Don't you know your own name?"

A young three-year-old boy had ruined his shoes in a mud puddle. He was consoling his mother about the shoes. "Don't worry, mommy, the shineman will clean them up."

At Bible School a young five-year-old child was learning the Twenty-Third Psalm. That night she was working on her memory work while her mother helped out by prompting and listening. She finished the verses through, "Surely, goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life..." and became very pensive. In a few minutes she asked, "Mommy, are the shepherd's dogs named Surely, Goodness and Mercy?"

Yes, children are honest, clever, and so humorous that, in a way, it is a pity they must grow to be men and women.

OUR DEMOCRACY—by Mat

AFTER A CENTURY OF HAZARDOUS SURVEYING—OF TREE BOUNDARIES AND WHEEL OR PACE MEASUREMENT—THE U.S. GEOLOGICAL SURVEY WAS ESTABLISHED 75 YEARS AGO, TO EXPLORE AND MAP THE COUNTRY'S RESOURCES WITH SCIENTIFIC ACCURACY. EVEN NOW, MUCH OF THE WORK REMAINS TO BE DONE—SO THE AGENCY IS STILL PIONEERING IN A SENSE.

WE AMERICANS, IN A YOUNG AND VIRILE COUNTRY, HAVE JUST BEGUN TO REALIZE THE POSSIBILITIES, SO VAST AND RICH ARE OUR RESOURCES. INITIATIVE, ENTERPRISE AND THIFT, AND THE CARE WITH WHICH WE MAP OUT OUR PLANS, HELP US IN ATTAINING OUR GOALS. WHETHER WE'RE EMPLOYERS, FARMERS, FACTORY WORKERS, SCIENTISTS, OFFICE PEOPLE—WE'RE ALL STILL PIONEERING.

OUR YOUTH... Kemp Marby

He was tall and tanned and he was home from college for a few days. Just a year ago he was graduated from high school where he was an outstanding student leader. We recalled that he had organized and led, single-handed, a group of young boys. He had worked with them for two years, giving his time and a good measure of his own money which he had earned himself. Now he was asking our help in setting up a program for young people in the town where he was attending college. He had been a student leader. He had been a student leader. He had been a student leader.

It seems to us that one of the prime concerns in our work with youth should be the encouragement of service to others. Young people need to be shown the satisfactions of giving.

As we travel around over the state we see a noticeable difference in communities in their response to opportunities to give. Some towns respond readily to civic needs. Their leaders are ready to give both time and money to meet the challenge. Other towns seem to have leaders who are inarguably ready to give both time and money to meet the challenge. Other towns seem to have leaders who are inarguably ready to give both time and money to meet the challenge.

By the Light of the Word

—PSALM 48—

GREAT is the Lord, and greatly to be praised in the city of our God, in the mountain of his holiness.

Beautiful for situation, the joy of the whole earth, is mount Zion, on the sides of the north, the city of the great King.

God is known in her palaces for a refuge.

For lo, the kings were assembled, they passed by to gether.

They saw it, and so they marvelled; they were troubled, and hasted away.

BUT DON'T BLAME US IF THE ALMANAC IS WRONG.

FROM OUT OF THE PAST—Fifty years ago Chas. Prentiss gave each of his 23 grandchildren $50 to take a trip to the World's Fair in St. Louis. We figure that for a weekend trip to Tybee today.

OUR NEIGHBOR, Norman Chalker, editor of the Savannah Daily, asks us to move over to allow him room in his corner—He too has a perfect record in picking losing candidates for governor of Georgia.

BING PHILLIPS, one of our neighbors over on College Boulevard, caught us working in our front yard Saturday morning. He stopped and we chatted for a while. We were thankful for the excuse to quit work, for it was as hot as a firecracker.

ARE YOU A 3-D DRIVER? Dumb, daring and deadly! There are enough of these drivers on the road to make driving in heavy traffic a risky business for everybody. If they don't kill you they scare you to death. As a driver, you must make from 20 to 50 decisions an hour, and a wrong one can be fatal. Don't be a 3-D driver. Be a 3-C driver—cautious, careful and courteous.

WITH ALL OUR candidates for governorship out over the state making promises of all sorts on all things, we think it advisable to recall some famous proverbs regarding promises:

A man apt to promise is apt to forget.

Great promise, small performance.

He who gives fair words feeds you with an empty spoon.

IT SEEMS TO ME... Max Lockwood

What would you have said? What would you have been your answer if the young man had looked to you and asked the question, "When do you know if you have found God?"

There was a time when the question could have been answered in an easy way and he would have accepted that answer without question. Then it is not true of the youth of today. The time is past when he will accept the explanations of an adult without thinking or without questioning or reasoning how that answer applies to his own way of thinking and living.

I did not reply quickly as my mind began to search in the field of my own experience and his question was put to me again. "How does one know when he has found God?"

In my limited way I tried to explain that possibly I could not answer the question to his satisfaction and that regardless of our intelligence or our station in life there were few of us who could answer any question except along the lines of our own experiences.

And I told him that somehow I had always just accepted the fact that God had come to me early in life as my family introduced me to the church and the Christian way of living and that my relationship with God had given me a feeling of security and happiness. Yet, even as I talked I knew that I had failed him and that I had not answered his question, not to his satisfaction or to mine.

Long after he had gone I could not drive away from my thinking that not only was I unable to answer the question for him, but I could not find an answer for myself.

The next day I went early to the office and as I sat there in the stillness of the early morning, I searched my mind for the answer to his question. When in my life did I know that I had found God? When did God cease to be an impersonal thing and become a real living thing in my life?

And as I sat there in the stillness of another day the answer came to me and brought with it a new feeling of comfort and

PORTAL BAPTIST CHURCH BEGINS REVIVAL

Revival services at the Portal Baptist Church begins Sunday, August 15, and continues through August 21. The Rev. Carl Milton of Vahama, Ga. is the guest minister.

The Rev. Milton is a very successful pastor and a good speaker. He will be assisted by the pastor, the Rev. C. K. Everett.

The church extends a cordial invitation to their friends to attend these services.

Mrs. James Blackmon and daughters of Washington, Ga. spent several days last week with her parents, Dr. and Mrs. C. Miller.

Mr. J. W. Davis of Atlanta was the guest of his sister, Mrs. Rex Trappell and Mr. Trappell last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Aubrey Folsom and son, Clinton, of Atlanta, have returned home after several days visit with her sister, Mrs. J. E. Parrish, Mr. Parrish and Johnny. They also visited her mother, Mrs. J. N. Shearouse in Brooklet.

Mr. and Mrs. James Turner and family of Columbia, Illinois are visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Turner and other relatives this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Robinson and daughter, Jane, and son, Bo, of Tarboro, North Carolina, Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Hughes and Mr. and Mrs. D. Hughes of Homerville, are the guests of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. O. Wynn, this week.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Woods, Mrs. Millard Griffith and daughters, Shelby Gene and Nancy, spent several days last week in Charleston, S. C., the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Walter J. Woods and family.

Mrs. J. H. Hinton to represent Ga. homemaking teachers in N. Y.

By Mrs. John A. Robertson

Mrs. J. H. Hinton, homemaking teacher in the Brooklet School, has been selected to represent the Georgia homemaking teachers at the American Institute of Cooperation that will be held at Cornell University, Ithaca, N. Y., August 15-19.

Miss Mary Ansley, a student in Mrs. Hinton's homemaking department, will represent the Georgia Future Homemakers Association. Miss Ansley, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. W. H. Ansley, will be a senior in the Brooklet School in the 1954-55 term, and she has also been elected to serve as president of the Brooklet FHA for the next school term.

Mrs. Hinton and Miss Ansley will leave Atlanta August 12, by motor, with other teachers for Ithaca.

After the session there they will tour to Montreal and Quebec, to Bangor, Maine, Boston, New York, Washington, Williamsburg, and other places of interest. They plan to return to Brooklet August 30.

Mrs. Hinton and Miss Ansley were selected because of their outstanding work in FFA service. All expenses will be paid. Mrs. Hinton will also attend the State Conference of Vocational Homemaking Teachers at Camp Jackson, near Covington, just before she leaves for Ithaca.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Bryan and two children are spending a few days here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. R. Bryan. Mr. Bryan has recently graduated from the School of Pharmacy at the University of Georgia, and he has accepted a position at Thomasville where he and his family will move at an early date.

Bulloch County Farm Bureau

Farm prices would stabilize on permanent farm program

If Congress would enact a permanent farm program, prices for farm products would soon be stabilized and not fluctuate so much, H. L. Wingate, president of the Georgia Farm Bureau, stated to the West Side chapter Tuesday night.

Mr. Wingate was a surprise speaker for the West Side Farm Bureau. H. W. Smith Jr., the West Side president, had a program arranged but when he found that Mr. Wingate would probably spend the night in Statesboro he arranged to have him picked up on arrival and carried to West Side for supper and to appear on the program.

Congress will probably adjourn without enacting a farm program that will prevent the 75 to 90 per cent sliding scale support program from going into effect January 1, Mr. Wingate predicted.

Although this will probably be best for the existing conditions, failure to pass the 90 per cent support extension will probably defeat many of the best members of Congress that are fighting it that the desired legislation can be procured after the November election.

The one-year extension as passed by the House has materially upset farm prices. Mr. Wingate stated that the buying public and business needs to know what will happen from year to year if farmers are to receive prices expected for farm products. Most buyers are just taking what they can get by with and not buying any surplus cotton, corn, wheat, meat or anything else.

If this republican administration lets the support program for farm products go as it now appears they will, it will be 40 years before they get back into power, Mr. Wingate predicted. Efforts are still being made by the end users of peanuts to get them out of the support program and indications are tobacco will be the next crop farmers will have to worry about being taken out. Mr. Wingate stated that the tobacco farmers were doing a fine job holding their support program, but that various interests were wondering now about attempts to treat the tobacco growers just as they are treating the peanut farmers. Tobacco growers seem to think their program is safe from any attack. At least they are not supporting the Farm Bureau like they feel as if they will need help. Mr. Wingate stated that there are 431,000 members of the stabilization corporation, an organization created by the Farm Bureau to support tobacco prices, and about 520,000 Farm Bureau members in the entire 13 southern states. The tobacco growers are a very small number of only five states. It is a lot easier to keep in 1950 there was no winter legumes grown in orchards in Georgia. Last year there were 57,495 acres of legume crops growing in orchards in the state.

New Hope Church plans big celebration in September

EDITOR'S NOTE—This is the fourth and final installment of the history of New Hope Church as written by Mrs. Clara Hodges McKinnon. The church was founded in 1840. The members are celebrating a jubilee for its founding and fiftieth anniversary in September.

In the years when New Hope was one of the twenty or more preaching places in the Ogeechee valley, which included all territory between the Ogeechee and Ocmulgee Rivers, there were three or four preachers on the circuit and present at the quarterly conference which sometimes lasted three days. The preachers present were designated as presiding elders, charge preachers, traveling preachers, itinerant preachers. Usually only the initials of these terms were used. Other members of conference present were local preachers, class leaders and charge stewards. It has been true of this church, as of others, that there were the "faithful few" who were ready to lead in all forward movements. This they did, not only because it was a duty, but love for Him and His Kingdom made every opportunity a service a privilege and joy.

Among those who gave long years of faithful and efficient service were: David Kennedy, who served from the organization of the church until his death in 1840, twenty-six years; Eli Kennedy held many offices until his death in 1843, thirty-nine years; Shepherd Williams who died in 1850, served more than twenty years. They are passed to their reward. Their places were filled by others, among them Hardy B. Hodges, McKinnon, Miss Bertha Hagan, Union Church, and Ed. Ward Jones and Mitchell Williams.

After the reorganization in 1866 those named to official places were: Hardy B. Hodges, class leader and steward; Mitchell Williams, steward; William A. Hodges, class leader; and William M. Eason, assistant class leader. Others who were officials for many years were: Jessie Graham, Joseph Dutton, M. C. Moore, B. E. Hagan, Hardy L. Hagan, W. M. Scott, T. J. Morris, F. C. Banks, and L. B. Hagan. The last named, besides serving in other offices, was superintendent of the Sunday School for twenty years, giving faithful and loyal service. Others who served faithfully for many years as Sunday School superintendents were: Mitchell Williams and William A. Hodges Sr. These two were members at New Hope sixty-seven years and each served in some official capacity for nearly sixty years. Five members of the present (1949) official board have held office for twenty-five or more years. Several members of unfeigned have an unbroken line of such service.

SAWSTUD IN SANDBOX

If your toddler's sandbox needs refilling, try sawdust instead of sand. It is less expensive, often it can be had for asking at a sawmill. Youngsters like it just as well as sand. They stay cleaner playing in sawdust, too, because it doesn't stick to them as sand does.

Farmers may get J. H. Griffith loans for water systems

Bulloch county's drought-stricken farmers may prevent a recurrence of this year's disaster through the establishment of farm irrigation systems which may be financed by federal funds under the terms of legislation passed this week by the House of Representatives.

Long term loans at low interest rates may be obtained by farmers for building dams, constructing ponds and buying pipe and other equipment to conserve and utilize water for crop and pasture purposes under the provisions of the new law. Mr. Preston, who was a leader in passing the bill stated, "The water facilities act" had already passed the Senate and is expected to become a law next week upon signing by the President.

The Department of Agriculture will administer the funds. Loans may be made by an agency of the department under regulations yet to be issued, or established lending agencies may advance private funds for irrigation projects, which will be guaranteed by the government, according to the act.

"This legislation comes too late to help the thousands of farmers who have been reduced to desperation because of this year's terrible drought," Mr. Preston asserted. "But I believe that severe damages may be averted in the future by establishing irrigation systems, funds for which are made available by this bill. This was my intense conviction in vigorously supporting this legislation."

The Federal District Commission pointed out that thousands of acres had been made productive in the arid western states through similar government financed irrigation. He expressed the belief that Georgia farmers could likewise irrigate their lands and stabilize their crop production once the facilities for irrigation and water conservation were made available.

On Sunday, Billy Bland invited a group of his friends down to their cottage on the river to see the former launching of his cabin cruiser which he built with the help of many of the boys in town. Those enjoying crabbing, swimming, boating and fishing in the pool, fishing and boat riding were Mary Williams, Jane Averitt, Charlotte Blitch, Lynn Smith, Mrs. J. H. Wheeler, Teresa Fox, Jane Morris, Pat Lanier, Jo Attaway, Julie Simmons, James Albert Brannan, Joe Johnston, Glenn Jenkins, Bobby Donaldson, Paul Atkins, Clark DeLoach, Aubrey Brannan, Jr., Cecil Kennedy, Jr. and Smith Banks and Phil Morris.

Miss Bette Womack is Bulloch county's "Maid of Cotton" queen and will compete for state honors in the contest August 12, 13, and 14. Miss Womack is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Womack.

Mrs. Bernard Morris will go along as Miss Womack's coach for the contest at Augusta. She is being sponsored in the state contest by the Statesboro gymnasium and the Statesboro gymnasium.

Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Womack will be the guest of honor at the annual picnic of the Statesboro Farmers Union and Warehouse and the Bulloch County Farm Bureau.

Rotarians visit Marydell Styles

Members of the Statesboro Rotary Club visited one of the guests at the last Monday as part of their program. More than 60 members of the club visited the Statesboro home of Marydell Styles, Inc., makers of children's dresses, located on Main street.

Mr. Harvey Rosenberg and Mr. Joe Fawcett, partners in the industry, conducted a tour of the plant, explaining the various operations in the cutting, assembling, sewing, and packing of the dresses.

The industry employs more than 50 Bulloch county women and has a monthly payroll of more than $10,000. Marydell Styles, Inc., was established here in July of last year. The Bulloch County Development Corporation constructed the building in which they are operating. It was through the developing corporation that Mr. Rosenberg and Mr. Fawcett came to be with their families and established this industry.
